Castelli

Refined and essential, Secrets offers a contemporary take on the prestigious classic from which it takes its name: the "secretaire". This desk features a distinctive three-dimensional technical desk-pad integrated with the lightness of the transparent glass top, in a bronze or smoked finish. This original element includes a large front drawer in which to store work accessories and personal effects, and an easily accessible technical cabinet for handling cables and direct connections to the electricity, data and telephone networks. Available in wood, lacquer and partial leather-covering. Secrets is completed with a low container fitted with large drawers and an open compartment in contrasting colours, with LED lighting. Like the technical cabinet, the container is available in wood and lacquer
